The factors influencing your pension choices

Planning the best way to draw your pension savings is not straightforward, after all, there's no 'one size fits all' when it comes to retirement.

Life expectancy, the impact of inflation and the choices available at retirement (thanks to the 2015 Pension Freedoms) are all influencing factors in your decision making. You'll also need to take into account not just your pension savings but any other investments or assets you might have.

Your pension choices

If you're aged 55 or over and in a defined contribution pension plan from 6 April 2015, you may be able to access your pension savings in a number of different ways:

- Buy an annuity
- Flexi Access Drawdown
- Uncrystallised Funds Pension Lump Sum (UFPLS)

If you decide not to purchase (or defer the purchase of) an annuity and instead take income using Flexi-access drawdown or UFPLS, adopting the right investment approach and keeping it regularly under review will be all important.

A question of balance

Balancing the potentially conflicting needs of income production and capital preservation is vital. Equally important is an understanding that personal circumstances will change throughout your retirement.

The three 'stages' of retirement

The early years

You're more active and therefore might want flexibility over how you draw your income.

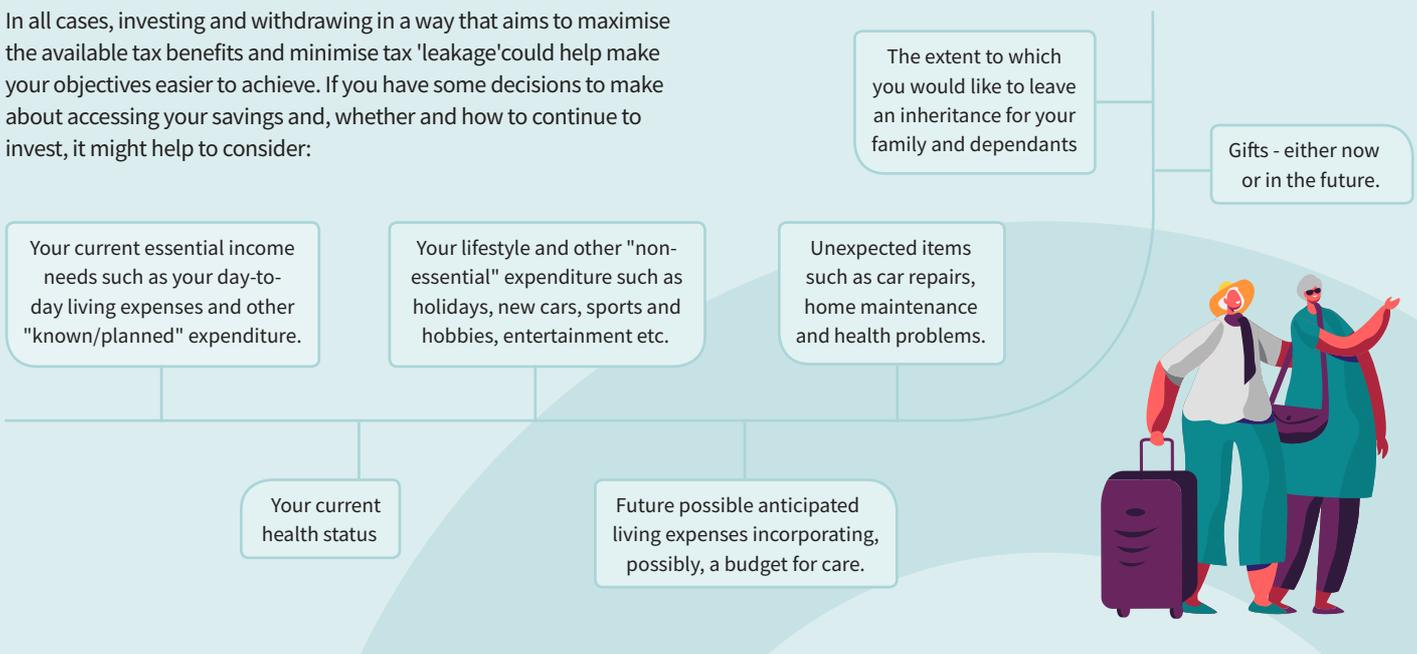

The middle years

You're getting slightly less active and your lifestyle has settled into a more stable routine, so you'll need a more stable income level.

The later years

You may need to increase your income to cover, for example, the cost of care.

In all cases, investing and withdrawing in a way that aims to maximise the available tax benefits and minimise tax 'leakage' could help make your objectives easier to achieve. If you have some decisions to make about accessing your savings and, whether and how to continue to invest, it might help to consider:

The value of investments and any income from them can fall as well as rise. You may not get back the amount originally invested. HM Revenue and Customs practice and the law relating to taxation are complex and subject to individual circumstances and changes which cannot be foreseen.

Investing for the next generation

In the early years this might translate into a surplus of toys or days out, but this stage eventually passes and thoughts turn towards the future transition from child to adulthood and beyond.

This longer-term perspective raises the question of how best to provide financial support through, what could be an expensive transition and inevitably this leads to a variety of issues:

- Are there particular needs which should be targeted or is it more important to have money available as and when your child needs it?
- Which investments would be appropriate?
- Is it possible to put some parental or other controls in place for when children can access the investment?
- Which are the most tax-efficient investments?

Investing for life's key events

For today's children, the path through the early years of adulthood might cost rather more than that of their parents - and grandparents:

Higher education may be seen to be more important for gaining a reasonable job, but it also comes at a much higher cost. Taking into account tuition fees, accommodation and living expenses, a three-year degree is likely to cost the poorest students more than £50,000 according to a 2017 Institute of Fiscal Studies report. Before 1998, there were only grants and loans for tuition fees did not begin until 2006. Your generation may have left university with a bank overdraft, but the sum owing probably pales into insignificance compared to the five figure debts faced by today's graduates.

Marriage is an increasingly costly staging post for those who choose it. According to the annual wedding survey by Bridebook.co.uk the average cost of a wedding in 2018 was just over £30,000! Despite the cost, two thirds of couples questioned in the survey admitted to either going over budget or having no budget at all.

Getting on the first rung of the property ladder is another growing cost for the next generation. According to research by Halifax, first time buyers are having to find record deposits, with the national average exceeding £33,000. It's no surprise people are having to leave it until later to buy their first home.

Once they have the degree, the job and the home (and the mountain of debt), there's another long-term financing requirement which today's children will encounter: retirement provision.

Take expert advice

Two principles that apply to many aspects of financial planning are particularly relevant when thinking about children:

1. The sooner you start the better, and the more scope there is for investments to grow (although there's still no guarantee that they will).
2. Take expert advice before making any decisions. The right investment set up in the wrong way can be worse than the wrong investment set up in the right way. DIY planning is not to be recommended, given the potential pitfalls.

Take control of your investments

Your platform access may depend on the ongoing servicing level you have agreed with us. Please get in touch to find out more.

Getting a clear, concise view of your investment portfolio can be difficult and time-consuming. That's why we use a secure, online system known as a platform.

A platform gives you secure, online access to your investment funds with a transparent, easy-to-understand charging structure. So rather than holding your ISAs, pensions and other investments in different places, you can view everything at a single glance.

Think of it as an online bank account for your investments which we can administer on your behalf.

A clear picture

As well as cutting down on paperwork, using a platform can speed up transactions and give you the flexibility to take advantage of annual tax allowances. And because your assets are held on one online source, you (and we) can access consolidated reports at the touch of a button.

Whether you need a stocks and shares ISA for tax efficient savings, a simple way of investing your money, or a pension to help fund your retirement, we can offer it all in one place with a single solution, giving you secure online access to keep an eye on your investments 24/7.

With us by your side, we'll help make your money work harder for you, giving you peace of mind, a sense of direction and control over your future.

The benefits of a platform

Choice

A platform provides easy access to a wide range of investment funds, allowing us to tailor your portfolio to better reflect your current circumstances, financial position and attitude to risk.

Flexibility

As well as allowing you to view your investments in one place, the flexibility of the platform means you can record other assets such as the value of your property or any antiques you may have.

Ease of use

The platform is uncomplicated and user friendly. It takes the effort out of managing your finances (and completing your tax return) because you can access consolidated reports at the touch of a button.

Transparent charging

The platform helps you clearly see the costs involved with any investment decision you make.

Control

The platform gives greater control when it comes to making key investment decisions.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of an investment and any income from it can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the amount you originally invested.
